BACKGROUND

The onward push to remove the Red Meanies from Korea continues and things are going pretty well. Our tank battalions are trying to force a dent in the central front and that will help considerably.

CURRENT SITUATION

It has come to our attention that a rather nasty weapon is being developed in the Masan region. It is believed to be a mortar round developed from processed cow manure and politicians breath. The mortar will have a strong but breathable textile. The effect on our troops could be extremely effective with many of them disabled while they leave their last meals on the battlefield due to the horrendous pong! We must stop this weapon being developed.

MISSION DETAILS

Mission – Masan is the area to be levelled, particularly the pong processing plant, the textile plant and the ammo store. We hope that hitting it at this late stage of the weapons development could backfire on the Meanies.

Weather – It's pretty bad. Winds are +20 knots from the SE. Slightly overcast at the home plates but the weather is bad at the target area with thick cloud, rain and a cloud base of around 2000 ft.

Enemy – The enemy has top line static and mobile SAMs through the area as well and AAA. The air assets are serious threats, with active threats from Mig 29S aircraft that have just been delivered to them.

Friendly – Other friendly missions are and will be in the air during your flights. We also have AWACs, which will be on station by the time you are airborne.

Good Luck
